

Agalite Owner's Manual

Congratulations!

You have selected the world's finest shower door or tub enclosure. Ever since inventing the frameless shower door in the 1950's, Agalite has been known for its unequivocal quality.

Agalite doors are made of tempered glass, durable hardware and the finest aluminum in heavy gauges to ensure a lifetime of virtually trouble-free, worry-free use. We have over two million doors worth of experience. This gives us the confidence to say that you will enjoy your Agalite shower/tub enclosure for many years. Here are a few tips to help you care for and clean your Agalite shower door or tub enclosure to keep it looking new.

Care & Cleaning The Glass

Agalite suggests squeegeeing the glass frequently and cleaning it regularly with a recommended cleaner. Agalite follows the recommendation of the Bath Enclosures Manufacturing Association (BEMA) who recommends DOW Liquid Comet Bathroom Cleaner for use on shower and bath enclosures. To squeegee the glass select any of the numerous squeegee-type products on the market. Using a squeegee for a minute after each shower helps keep spots and scale from accumulating on glass components. A combination of regular cleaning and squeegeeing will help keep your glass door clean and clear.

Aluminum - "Anodized"

Silver, Gold, Brushed Nickel or Satin Silver

Most of the silver, gold, brushed nickel or satin silver metal components of your shower door are anodized aluminum. Aluminum is a lightweight, non-rusting metal which is anodized to give it its color, to make it shiny and to help seal it against corrosion and pitting. Some glass and scale cleaners can damage the anodizing and cause pitting of the aluminum surfaces. You can permanently damage the metal's finish if improper cleaning compounds are used. The result can be the appearance of white spots on the aluminum. These spots are caused by alkaline and phosphoric acids that are found in cleaners. Many of these products' labels warn against use on anodized aluminum. Read labels thoroughly before using on your shower door. Drywall, spackle and tile grout, which contain lime, can also spot aluminum.

Aluminum - "Powder-coated"

Powder-coated Metal – White, Black, etc.

If your unit is not one of the anodized colors listed above, it is probably painted via a "powder-coat" process. The powder-coat surface is very durable, but it can scratch or chip. If a scratch occurs, please contact your dealer or Agalite directly for a bottle of touch-up paint. Cleaning and care for the powder-coated metal is the same as the anodized metal.

A Note Concerning Tempered Glass

To conform to building codes, shower doors must use tempered glass. Building codes specify tempered glass due to its safety properties. Tempered glass is four to six times stronger than un-tempered (or annealed) glass and in the rare event of accidental breakage, it will break into smaller, less jagged pieces. Due to these benefits, automobile windows utilize tempered glass.

The area of a tempered piece of glass which is most vulnerable to breakage is any exposed edge. For this reason, be sure that when the door is swinging or sliding that it does not hit something hard or sharp, such as, a toilet, towel rack or sink, etc. Also ensure the glass door does not swing or slide into unprotected metal components of the shower door itself. If the door does hit another unprotected part, it may indicate shifting or settling of the house, an improper installation or any other situation that requires attention. Call your Agalite dealer or the company who installed the door, immediately, to have the situation corrected. In the event of breakage, contact your dealer for replacement and read the Lifetime Warranty included in this packet.

Your Warranty and Warranty Card

Included in this Agalite Owner's Manual packet is your Lifetime Warranty and Warranty Registration Card. To activate your warranty, please complete and mail the registration card within 30 days of the installation of the enclosure.

Agalite takes great pride in providing the world's finest shower and tub enclosures. We are always striving to improve. Please notice that there is a "Comment" section on the Warranty Registration Card. Take a moment to write down any comments, criticism, or compliments that you may have concerning our products. Your comments will be appreciated greatly.

We hope you thoroughly enjoy your Agalite shower door or tub enclosure for many worry-free years.
